* Cookies are small text files with information stored on the user's terminal device via its browser when a website is visited. When the website is visited again using the same terminal device, the cookie and the information stored in it can be accessed. Depending on storage duration a differentiation is made between transient and persistent cookies. Transient cookies, already called session cookies, are deleted automatically when you close your browser. Persistent cookies are stored on your terminal device for a defined period even after you close your browser.

 Web beacons (also called tracking pixels) are small images that enable a log file to be recorded and analysed when e-mails or websites are accessed.

II. Purpose and legal basis of processing personal data

We process the (categories of) personal data specified in C. I. above for the following purposes and on the legal bases.

If processing is based on Article 6 (1) (f) GDPR, we also specify the legitimate interests pursued by us or any third party.

| Purpose of processing | (Categories of) personal data | Legal basis for processing in accordance with GDPR | (Categories of) recipients |
